

Costa Rican Sea Turtles

Expedition Packing List

GENERAL

- Expedition Logistics Document
- Your travel plans, rendezvous details, and Earthwatch's emergency contact information
- Photocopies of your passport, flight itinerary, and credit cards in case the originals are lost or stolen; the copies should be packed separately from the original documents
- Passport and/or visa (if necessary)
- Certification of vaccination (if necessary)
- Documentation for travel by minors (if necessary)

CLOTHING/FOOTWEAR FOR FIELDWORK

- At least three comfortable T-shirts. You will also be supplied with a work t-shirt upon arrival that you will be asked to wear all for nighttime or daytime research tasks.
- At least two pairs of shorts to wear during daytime research activities
- At least one pair of lightweight long pants to wear on the beach at night
- A long-sleeved, lightweight sweatshirt
- A light rain jacket or poncho, plus rain pants if you wish (especially October–November teams)
- Plenty of socks for protecting your feet while walking in sand (long-tennis socks are great for stopping bugs from biting your ankles while patrolling)
- At least one pair of broken-in sneakers that you are comfortable getting wet and walking in for long- distances on sand. Closed-toed sandals (e.g. Keens) or light hiking boots are also suitable and depends on your preference. Some biologists have found Crocs sandals to be very comfortable, but this depends on each individual.
- Wide-brimmed hat

CLOTHING/FOOTWEAR FOR LEISURE

- At least one set of clothing to keep clean for end of expedition and for possible recreational activities
- Sandals or flip-flops for daytime activities.
- Loose, comfortable clothing. Long sleeves and long pants are recommended for the evening to discourage insect bites, while shorts and t-shirts are suitable for daytime activities.
- One bathing suit for swimming and relaxing (two if you want to always keep one pair dry)
- Loose, comfortable clothing for during the day while not working (shorts and T-shirts)

FIELD SUPPLIES

- One headlamp (a small 2xAAA size headlight is recommended). Headlamps with red light settings are best because turtles are less sensitive to red light than they are to white light. If the headlight does not have a red light setting a red filter will be applied in the field.
- Small daypack
- Sunscreen lotion (We encourage biodegradable reef/fish-friendly products like those from Stream2Sea. Get 10% off with promo code 'Earthwatch')
- Insect repellent
- Refillable water bottle(s)

BEDDING AND BATHING

- At least one large bath towel
- Beach towel

Note: Bedding and pillows will be provided by the project.

PERSONAL SUPPLIES

- Personal toiletries (biodegradable soaps and shampoos are encouraged)
- Personal first aid kit (e.g., anti-diarrhea pills, antibiotics, antiseptic, itch-relief, pain reliever, bandages, blister covers such as moleskin, etc.) and medications
- Spending money in cash (US $250–300 or the equivalent in colones is usually plenty unless you are planning additional side trips) and a credit card (most credit cards are readily accepted)

OPTIONAL ITEMS

- A travel alarm clock
- Sunglasses
- Digital light-up, water-repellent watch
- A small, hand-held flashlight (in addition to a headlamp, which is required)
- Extra snacks like granola bars or trail mix; they are quite expensive in Costa Rica
- Bandana(s) to keep bugs and sand out of your hair
- Snorkel and mask if you want to snorkel during recreational time (we have a few sets to share at the station, but if you have your own we suggest that you bring it)
- Camera, film or memory card(s), extra camera battery
- Hardware for sharing digital photographs at the end of the expedition
- Dry bag or plastic sealable bags (e.g. Ziploc) to protect equipment like cameras from dust, humidity, and water

- Earplugs and/or sleep mask for light sleepers

After proceeding through customs, recheck your luggage before flying on to your final destination.
